Programs & Services

Help for Today.

Hope for Tomorrow...®

"No one should go through this journey alone. So, come with us. We can help in so many ways."

Shelley Green Executive Director

Support Services

A wide range of services, including individual support and monthly groups, are available to meet the needs of those affected by dementia. Care providers and those with memory loss are supported throughout the continuum of the disease.

Education

Programs and workshops are offered for individuals and families, caregivers, health-care workers, the general public and students to increase awareness about Mild Cognitive Impairment, Alzheimer's disease and other dementias.

Volunteer Companion Program

Our in-home support service matches trained volunteers who provide companionship to the person with dementia and relief to caregivers.

Medic Alert® Safely Home®

The Society can facilitate registration in the Medic Alert® Safely Home® program recognized across North America to help people with dementia live as safely as possible.

Visit www.medicalert.ca/safelyhome or call 1-855-581-3794 for more information.

Resource Centre

Our lending library, open to the public, offers a variety of dementia resources including books, DVDs, videos and magazines, as well as literature from related community resources. Also visit www.healthline.ca for more information.

"I still have a whole lot of living to do."

From "Adding Life to Years, Not Years to Life" Daniel Kuhn, MSW Alzheimer's Care Today

What is Dementia?

- Alzheimer's disease and other dementias are progressive, degenerative diseases that destroy vital brain cells. This process is not a normal part of aging.
- Symptoms of Alzheimer's disease and other dementias include gradual onset and continuing decline of memory, changes in judgment and reasoning, and decreased ability to perform familiar tasks.
- There is no known cause or cure for dementia. However, medication is available to alleviate some of the symptoms.

Volunteer Opportunities

At the Alzheimer Society of Oxford volunteers MAKE THE DIFFERENCE. The Society has many volunteer opportunities available to suit your needs and talents. Volunteers will experience a great feeling of satisfaction and reward through volunteering with the Society.

Your Support

Through the generosity and commitment of our donors, the Alzheimer Society of Oxford can help meet the needs of individuals and families affected by Alzheimer's disease and other dementias in our community. With the current and projected rise in incidence, we need your help more than ever. Please visit our website or contact our office for information on how you can offer your financial support.

"I can't imagine what the last few years would have been like for our family, and especially my parents, if they had not contacted the Alzheimer Society for help when Mom was diagnosed with Alzheimer's disease. The Alzheimer Society of Oxford has given us the education and support we needed during Mom's journey, as well as a compassionate shoulder to lean on."
